

CARLY JOHNSON "Iona Selah" has been dancing practically all her life but it wasn't until 2007 that she stumbled upon belly dance. Studying traditional Egyptian style under Nefertiti, Iona was born. After teaching and performing with Damali dance company in Ocean City, Md for 2 years, she moved on to other styles of belly dance. Now with a creative blend of different genres, Iona is happy to share her love for this practice with Baltimore School of Dance. She studied health science and anatomy and physiology at Penn college and obtained a physical training certificate. She is the creative director of Sacred Jewels belly dance and teaches belly dance, hula hoop and yoga.